We'are indebted to Auditor Miller for a copy of his bleunial report, and also to easurer West for a similiar favor some days ago. The Auditor's report has fust made its appearance from the hands of the public printer. We shall have occasion to refer to its contents hereafter.

The Legislature Reconsidering Its Hasty Instructions to Our Members of Con-both houses of the West Virginia Legisla-ture are inclined to recede from their hasty action in the matter of advising and in structing our delegates in Congress how they should vote on Tom Scott's great subsidy scheme. This evidence of sober seclooks a little childish. It teaches afresh the useful lesson that legislators should not pass a bill or resolution hastily, and least of all undertake to hastily and unadvisedly instruct other people how to vote.

service in enabling the members to come to a final conclusion on this subject, when they come to consumate the proceedings initiated yesterday.

The Texas Pacific Railroad Company was incorporated in March, 1871, with authority to build a railway from Marshall, Tex., along the 32d parallel, through Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and Southern Catifornia to the Pacific Ocean. The State of Texas granted 22,000,000 acres of land and the United States some 18,000, 000 acres. The Company consolidated with several other previously-incorporated companies, and inherited all their franchises, lands, and other property. The length of the road to be built was 1,574 miles. Under the charter the Company was to construct not less than 100 miles each year after the first year, from the east as to complete the whole distance in ten years. These were the conditions, on the failure of which the charter was to become forfeit. The Company, finding it impossible to induce capital to invest in the road, upplied to the Forty-third Congress for a subsidy, which application that the condition of the coad, upplied to the Forty-third Congress for a subsidy, which application the foot of the cabin, and upon inquiry and the coad, upplied to the company on the foot of the cabin, and upon inquiry and the coad, upplied to the company on the design of the coad, upplied to the Forty-third Congress for a subsidy, which application of the cabin, and upon inquiry and the coad, upplied to the forty third Congress for a subsidy, which application the failure of the conditions on the failure of which the charter was to become forfeit. Upon our arrival in this tropical city, to my subject or myself; for since our deand so pleasant, so delightful and so novel has been our journey, that I scarcely know where to begin, or where to leave off. Had I the time, I might enter into a full description, and give you many an interesting and several amusing details of our ride from Chicago to New Orleans, but these must be reserved for some future occasion. Upon our arrival at New Orleans much to our surprise and disappointment we found the atmosphere as cold and disagreeable as we had left at home, and all our bright expectations and exalted ideas of the famed beauty and serenity of the "Cresent City of the South," were considerably dimmed, and we would have willingly continued our journey, had not the noted STOCKS—The market to-day was extremely active and excited and transactions even larger than yesterday. At the opening Canada Southern advanced 2½ per cent, and the remainder of the list was ½41 per cent higher than last night's closing quotations. This buoyancy was taken advantage of by the bulls to realize, and under enormous sales prices yielded readily to the extent of ½5½ per cent. After midday there was a recovery of ½42½ per cent, but towards the close a weakness again set in and there was a decline of ½5½ per cent from the highest point of Wheeling Wholesale Market.

OFFICE DAILY INTELLIGENCES, WHIEKLING, Tuesday, January 28.

A dull business is reported in nearly all branches of the wholesale market. Grain continues to rule steady at previous quotations. Flour is firm and unchanged. Groceries are quiet, with but little business doing, and quotations the same as last week. We advance our quotations for provisions, which are firner under the influence of the tupward movement in the West. The produce trade shows little change.

The quotations given in the following reports are prices realized on wholesale transactions, unless otherwise specified:

Africas—There is a fair business doing, at easy prices. The receipts continue liberal. In the West.

Foreign Grain Market.

London, January 28.—The Mark Lane Express says: The greater part of Northwestern Europe has been frost bound the past week, and it is hoped that such weather will, as heretofore, prove favorable to spring crups. Granary stocks are small, and despite the imports of California wheat, next month's supplies are unlikely to be heavy; nevertheless, millers are indisposed to purchase, because raites for March delivery couvince them that prices in April will not seriously differ from those at present current. There has been considerable fall in barley, whereof the deliveries are rather large. Outs deliveries are moderate and the price has been lower than during the corresponding week for the past 10 years, so farmers are indisposed to sell. The imports of wheat into the United Kingdom for the week ending January 18th were 201,715 quarters 35 00 currents.
